When seer, Jasper Moon, is found dead on his consulting room floor, murdered with his own crystal ball, Detective Joe Rafferty quickly discounts the idea of a break-in by an intruder. In spite of the usual family-created problems, Rafferty does his best to concentrate on the investigation, during which, Rafferty discovers a highly incriminating DVD concealed in Moon's flat; a DVD which, if made public, could wreck more than one life. Only trouble is, although there is no shortage of suspects, they all have seemingly unbreakable alibis. A Killing Karma Geraldine Evans 2007 A Casey and Catt mystery - DCI Will Casey is asked by his parents to investigate a double murder at the Fenland commune where they live strictly unofficially. As if that's not enough, Casey also has to solve a very unpleasant murder on his own patch: a John Doe found dead in a dark alley. With the help of his knowing sergeant, Thomas Catt, Casey must try to get to the bottom of both official and unofficial cases . . .

A Thrust to the Vitals Geraldine Evans 2016 'I immediately connected to the characters and wonderful plot.' A Little Laughter. A Little Mayhem. A Little MURDER... *Returning to Elmhurst many years after his involuntary departure, to attend a civic reception in his honour, Sir Rufus Seward ignored the maxim that 'going back' is not always wise. Summoned after Seward's body is found, a wood chisel protruding from its back, DI Joe Rafferty receives a panicky call from his younger brother, Mickey, who fears he is in the frame for Seward's murder. Strangely, given his loathing of the dead man, Mickey had received an invitation to the reception. Keen to confront the bully who made his youth a misery, Mickey found his tormentor's body, and fled the scene... Rafferty, aware that his brother hated Seward, and that Mickey, a carpenter by trade, has three pointers to guilt - the means, the motive and the opportunity - finds himself torn between protecting his family and finding the real killer. But he can't protect Mickey forever. And if he wants his little brother to have a normal life again, he must find the killer--as a matter of urgency. Absolute Poison #5 Geraldine Evans 2014 #5 of 17 in the Rafferty & Llewellyn British Mystery Series A Little Laughter. A Little Mayhem. A Little MURDER... DI Joe Rafferty -- another murder investigation -- another little family difficulty. Detective Inspector Joseph Rafferty is having a bad week and he can't help feeling trouble comes in threes. Also niggling in his mind is the fact that Llewellyn, his posh sergeant, has brought a 'bargain' suit from Rafferty's Ma. Sure to be stolen goods, the suit is bound to drop Rafferty in it when the holier-than-thou Llewellyn wears it on his wedding day. Rafferty's first premonition turns out to be accurate when a company manager is found dead at his desk. The tyrannical Barstaple had known full well that he was hated by most of the office. But did he really deserve to be poisoned? And so horribly. Rafferty's week goes from bad to worse and worse again. And when you take the 'bargain' suit into the equation, the week really has gone to Hell in a handcart. And taken Rafferty with it. Bad Blood (Rafferty & Llewellyn British Mysteries, #7) Geraldine Evans 2016-10-14 A Little Laughter. A Little Mayhem. A Little MURDER... For Readers of cozy mysteries, humorous mysteries and police procedurals. A robbery gone wrong, Detective Joe Rafferty thought, when the latest murder victim, wealthy widow, Clara Mortimer was found battered to death in her home. Then Rafferty learned she wasn't a widow at all - and her estranged husband was living in the same block under a false name. * But that's not the only suspicious aspect of the case: Clara Mortimer's family add another complication, not eased either by their several deceptions or by the difficulties in Rafferty's personal life, which, as always, seems to be guided by a malign fate and take his eye off the investigatory ball. But could he help it if his automatic reaction when his live-in girlfriend Abra said she might be pregnant, wasn't exactly New Man? * Their investigation brings Rafferty and Llewellyn face to face with just how down and dirty families can be... and not just the families of murder victims. * RAFFERTY & LLEWELLYN MYSTERY SERIES Dead Before Morning #1 Down Among the Dead Men #2 Death Line #3 The Hanging Tree #4 Absolute Poison #5 Dying For You #6 Bad Blood #7 Love Lies Bleeding #8 Blood on the Bones #9 A Thrust to the Vitals #10 Death Dues #11 All the Lonely People #12 Death Dance #13 Deadly Reunion #14 Kith and Kill #15 Asking For It #16 The Spanish Connection #17

Down Among the Dead Men Geraldine Evans 2014 RAFFERTY & LLEWELLYN BRITISH MYSTERY SERIES #2 'I have fallen in love with her slow-paced but interesting books. For those who like mysteries, with Detectives who have a sense of humour. When beautiful Barbara Longman is found murdered in a meadow, uprooted wildflowers strewn about her, and, in her hand, a single marigold, British Detective Joe Rafferty at first believes the murder may be the work of the serial killer over the county border in Suffolk. But then he meets the victim's family-- and after liaising with the Suffolk police, he rapidly comes to believe that the mystery killing is the work of a copycat...one much closer to home; someone among the descendants of the long-dead family patriarch, Maximillian Shore. Everyone, it seems, had a motive: Henry the grieving widower; the victim's brother-in-law, Charles Shore the ruthless tycoon; Henry's first wife the Bohemian Anne, who has lost the custody of her teenage son, to the saintly Barbara. Even the long-dead patriarch, Maximillian Shore, seems, to Rafferty, to have some involvement in the murder, though how, or why, Rafferty doesn't understand until he finally grasps the truth behind the reasons for the killing. A truth sad and dreadful and which had been evident from the start, if only he had had the eyes to see. 'Evans' humour seriously added to my enjoyment of her book. This, her first, as well as the rest in the series, are well written, with standout central characters and clever plots.' AUNT AGATHA'S BOOKSHOP, ANN ARBOUR, USA 'I love this series. Great cozy mysteries and Rafferty and Llewellyn are great characters.' READER REVIEWER 'I'm really enjoying the author's subtle wit and the overall quality of the writing.' Down Among the Dead Men #2 Geraldine Evans When Inspector Rafferty sees Barbara Longman lying so peacefully in the flower-filled meadow by the River Tiffy, he finds it hard to believe she's dead. Mrs Longman was a popular woman - who could have wanted to kill her? The murder appears to bear the hallmarks of the Suffolk serial killer, but could a copycat murderer be at work - a copycat moreover, who enjoyed intimate knowledge of the victim? With the help of his sergeant, Dafyd Llewellyn, Rafferty begins to question Barbara Longman's family, descendants of the rich and powerful Maximillian Shore, As their inquiries continue it becomes clear that every person in the Shore household has motives in plenty for wanting Barbara out of the way. So why should Rafferty have an instinctive feeling that their long-dead patriarch is in some way connected with Barbara's murder? Rafferty's instincts are not enough, however, and firm proof of the killer's identity remains elusive. Until a memory from Rafferty's own past provides the vital clue which leads him to the terrible truth.

Love Lies Bleeding Geraldine Evans 2014 A Little Laughter. A Little Mayhem. A Little MURDER... For Readers who like cozy mysteries, humorous mysteries and police procedurals. A most unlikely killer, is British Detective Joe Rafferty's immediate thought, when the slender and bloodied Felicity Raine stumbles into the police station and confesses to the murder of her husband. Rafferty thinks her even more unlikely a murderer when he meets her in-laws and catches them out in several deceptions. There is something peculiar going on, he is convinced. Because although Felicity isn't down to receive any financial benefit from her husband's death, others in the Raine family are. Is one of them attempting to set Felicity up to take the murder rap? The case prompts Rafferty to more deeply investigate what lies beneath the surface -- not only in his current investigation, but in his tangled personal life, too. So Close to Death Yet So Far Away Derek C. Evans 2017-03-23 Growing up Derek Evans was a good student and athlete in a middle-class suburban area in southeastern Pennsylvania. The future looked bright for Derek. After waking up from a nap during his shift as a life guard at the age of seventeen, everything changed. After months of not feeling right and several doctors' visits, it was determined that Derek was beginning to suffer from a dysautonomia disorder called Postural Orthostatic Tachycardia Syndrome (POTS). POTS, sometimes referred to as an invisible illness, is a very unknown yet destabilizing and bizarre syndrome. Derek's next 8 years became a health roller coaster ride amid remission, relapses, emergency room and doctors' visits, and several different medications. Despite all this, Derek managed to keep his illness a secret from almost everyone, in fear of being judged and not understood. In October of 2016, Derek worked as an Assistant Branch Manager at Hertz Rent -A- Car. He collapsed inside a body shop during a sales call and woke up in an ambulance being transported to the hospital. After this life changing incident, Derek decided enough was enough and was determined to make major changes. Besides a new career, Derek found a passion to let the truth out about his illness. It was time to bring awareness. In this book, you will find the story of Derek's battle with POTS as well as interviews with mothers of children with POTS, doctors' opinions on the illness, and stories of many others suffering from POTS. You will begin to see life from the eyes of a person suffering from the invisible illness, Postural Orthostatic Tachycardia Syndrome. Although over one million people worldwide have been diagnosed, there is still little known about POTS. What is known by those who have it, is at times they feel like they are so close to dying, yet told they are so far away.

Dying for You Geraldine Evans 2011-09-13 #6 in series: Lonely, DI Joe Rafferty signs up with a dating agency under a pseudonym -- for very good reasons, or so he thought; but what he hasn't bargained on is that the first two women with whom he strikes up a rapport should wind up murdered - and with himself, or rather his alter ego Nigel Blythe, in the frame for the crime. The only good thing about the whole sad affair is that he is put in charge of the case. Can he find a way to investigate without the finger of suspicion being pointed at him?

Deadly Reunion (Rafferty & Llewellyn British Mysteries, #14) Geraldine Evans 2018-09-25 #14 of 18-strong mystery series When a former pupil attending a school reunion at the prestigious Griffin School is found dead it is at first assumed Adam Ainsley died from a simple heart attack while out for a run in the nearby woods. But the retired ex-professional rugby player was a fit young man in his thirties, who hadn't been near a doctor for years, so a post-mortem is called for. The PM's toxicology report shows that Ainsley was poisoned, but whether by his own hand or that of another's is far from clear. When DI Joe Rafferty and his partner, Dafyd Llewellyn, are called in to investigate, they find plenty of simmering emotions amongst Ainsley's co-reuners. It seems Adam Ainsley, the school's sporting hero, had made a lasting impression, and not always for his prowess on the sporting field. And when the detective pair delves deeper, they find reasons for the lasting resentment. But how to prove which one of the ex-pupils has let feelings fester for twenty years, to end in murder, isn't so readily apparent. And Rafferty's Ma, Kitty Rafferty, hasn't chosen her dates well for organising a reunion of her own. Coping with a high-profile murder case at work, and temporary guests at home ensures Rafferty finds little peace to think constructively in either place. Will this be the investigation that culminates in Superintendent Bradley finally achieving his aim of stripping Rafferty of his hard-won inspector rank?

Lapsed Catholic British Detective Joe Rafferty is dismayed that his latest murder investigation should centre around the local RC Convent, where a dead (male) body has been discovered in a shallow grave. The nuns' order is an enclosed, contemplative one, and access to their house and grounds, with its surrounding 8-foot-high walls, far from simple. But Rafferty, unlike his Sergeant, Dafyd Llewellyn, finds it easy as sin to believe that this is an inside job, and that the religious are as capable of murder as other frail mortals. As if to punish him for his blasphemy, the spiteful fates add some mischief sure to cause Rafferty palpitations. Because amongst his list of 'holy' suspects is his Parish priest and personal bête-noire, Father Roberto Kelly. As if all that's not enough for Detective Rafferty to cope with, he is also beset by personal problems of a blackmailing nature, stemming from a previous investigation that has come back to haunt him. Absolute Poison Geraldine Evans 2003 A Rafferty and Llewellyn mystery. Death Line Geraldine Evans 2014 #3 in the Rafferty & Llewellyn Mystery Series Jasper Moon, internationally renowned 'seer to the stars', had signally failed to foresee his own future. He is found dead on his consulting-room floor, his skull crushed with a crystal ball and, all around him, his office in chaos. Meanwhile, Ma Rafferty does some stargazing of her own and is sure she can predict Detective Inspector Joe Rafferty's future -- by the simple expedient of organising it herself. She is still engaged on her crusade to get Rafferty married off to a good Catholic girl with child-bearing hips. But Rafferty has a cunning plan to sabotage her machinations. Only trouble is, he needs Sergeant Llewellyn's cooperation, and he isn't sure he's going to get it. During their murder investigations, Inspector Rafferty and Sergeant Llewellyn discover a highly incriminating video concealed in Moon's flat, a video which, if made public, could wreck more than one life. Was the famous astrologer really a vicious sexual predator? Gradually, connections begin to emerge between Moon and others in the small Essex town of Elmhurst. Dead Before Morning Geraldine Evans 2019 'A lively and highly engrossing British mystery. All just-promoted Detective Inspector Joe Rafferty wanted for his first important investigation was a straightforward murder, that would enable him to get his man, and go forward to more complicated cases with confidence, leading a team who respected him. What he got was a murder investigation in Elmhurst's private psychiatric facility that could have been designed specifically to leave him with egg on his face, his reputation in shreds, and with his disliked-on-sight new Superintendent, Bradley triumphantly vindicated in his assessment of his incompetence. Right from the start, things go wrong--with a media always looking to sensationalise, and who hasn't named the victim 'The Faceless Lady' for nothing; with the chief suspect, a womanising psychiatrist called Dr Anthony Melville-Briggs, who thinks nothing of attempting a little bribery and corruption to achieve his aims. And then there's Rafferty's family, who can always be relied upon to make him take his eye off the ball at a critical moment. Even his partner, Sergeant Llewellyn, is a high-moral-tone intellectual who acts as if his educated-in-the-University-of-Life boss leaves a nasty smell under his nose. Bradley is hovering to crow and persuade the brass that he's been promoted above his competence. Beset on all sides, can he make sure the victim gets justice, and that his first case as Senior Investigating Officer, isn't his last?' Sharpens the appetite for more.' Whose Hand Is This? Rosalie Leaney 1999 Whose Hand is This? is a deeply moving account of one woman's survival of and partial recovery from stroke. What makes this book so remarkable is that Rosalie's story is presented side by side with that of her husband, Gordon. The enormous changes brought to their relationship, their different experiences of the same event, their tenacity, love and commitment, make this a compelling read. The Spanish Connection Geraldine Evans 2016 'This series gets better and better.' A nine-month pregnant wife, a murder victim found on an archaeological dig, minus his fingers, and very limited time, meant that

Joe Rafferty wasn't a happy bunny. Superintendent Bradley, media darling and determined to stay that way, only added to Rafferty's stress. * They discovered that their murder victim was small-time crook and drug dealer. He had vanished from Spain, where he worked for Charlie Carver, a Mr Big of the Costa del Crime. But Rafferty's visit to Spain was cut short when to Abra went into labour. And despite his promises that he'd be there at his child's birth, wouldn't you know the French air traffic controllers had staged their usual summer strike. * Superintendent Bradley, with the heady thought of promotion filling his mind, demanded he get Charlie Carver, who'd be a big feather in his cap with the brass. But Rafferty was convinced Carver wasn't the murderer. Becoming a daddy for the first was a big thing for Rafferty, in more ways than one. But he didn't know how he was to satisfy Abra that he was pulling his weight with the baby and at the same time find the killer. * His first marriage had held similar demands, but he couldn't risk what he had with Abra, yet at the same time, he was determined to find the killer, whatever the cost. * RAFFERTY & LLEWELLYN BRITISH MYSTERY SERIES Dead Before Morning #1 Down Among the Dead Men #2 Death Line #3 The Hanging Tree #4 Absolute Poison #5 Dying For You #6 Bad Blood #7 Love Lies Bleeding #8 Blood on the Bones #9 A Thrust to the Vitals #10 Death Dues #11 All the Lonely People #12 Death Dance #13 Deadly Reunion #14 Kith and Kill #15 Asking For It #16 The Spanish Connection #17 Game of Bones #18 WEBSITE/BLOG: <https://geraldineevansbooks.com> NEWSLETTER SIGN-UP: <http://eepurl.com/beYGIP>

Deadly Reunion Geraldine Evans 2011-10-01 The brand-new Rafferty and Llewellyn Mystery - Loves, labours, losses and not to mention a spattering of the occult are all part of an education at the prestigious Griffin School, but when a reunion culminates in the death of a high profile former student, DI Joseph Rafferty and his ever erudite partner, Sergeant Dafyd Llewellyn, are called in to unearth the truth behind the school's picturesque facade.

Death Dance Geraldine Evans A Little Laughter. A Little Mayhem. A Little MURDER... For Readers who like cozy mysteries, humorous mysteries and police procedurals. Murder victim Adrienne Staveley had a husband, a stepson, and several lovers. And while other men liked her too much, British Detective Joe Rafferty discovered her own menfolk had reasons not to like her very much at all. And as for her female in-laws... Rafferty and his partner, Dafyd Llewellyn, had to sort through Adrienne's tangled love life to find just who had left her murdered -- strangled on her own kitchen floor. Needless to say, the seldom considerate fates had ensured Rafferty had suspects in plenty and motives too numerous to mention. The only thing he and his partner lacked was proof against any one of them. And Joe Rafferty's wedding day was fast-approaching. Would he manage to solve the case and get off on his honeymoon? Or would the fates ensure he had to cancel and get in his bride, Abra's, bad books from the very start? The Hanging Tree (Rafferty & Llewellyn British Mysteries, #4) Geraldine Evans 'A WONDERFULLY ENTERTAINING READ'. A Little Laughter. A Little Mayhem. a Little MURDER... 'The old crossroads used to run by here,' Sam told Rafferty. 'Legend has it that this was the original Hanging Tree.' When Inspector Rafferty hears that a bound and hooded body has been seen hanging from a tree in Dedman Wood, he dismisses it as a schoolboy hoax. But then the witness turns out to be a respectable local magistrate, who identifies the corpse as Maurice Smith. Once accused of four child rapes, Smith's case became a cause-celebre when it was thrown out on a legal technicality, causing much ill-feeling in the community. And now Smith seems to have disappeared... Then the body turns up again in the woods. Could there be a self-appointed executioner at work, meting out his own form of justice on the legendary Hanging Tree? 'CLEVER AND BELIEVABLE CHARACTERS.' There are eighteen books in the Rafferty & Llewellyn series. When you add the middle-class, more moral than the Pope intellectual DS Dafyd Llewellyn to the brew the result is murder with plenty of laughs for the reader and plenty of angst for Rafferty.
